BIG MAJORITY FOR PRESIDENT

With Four Townships Out Late Today Taft Has 17 Delegates
Out of Possible 20.

3 FOR THE FORMER PRESIDENT

State and District Delegates in Jackson and District Delegate in Union For Roosevelt.

*****
* THE WAY IT LOOKS NOW. *
* With four townships out late *
* this afternoon the campaign * * for delegates to the State and * * district conventions stood like * * this: * * Nine TAFT delegates to the * * State convention. * * Eight TAFT delegates to the * * district convention. *
* One ROOSEVELT delegate to * * the State convention. *
* Two Roosevelt delegates to * * the district convention. *
*****

At the mass convention of Republicans of Rushville township outside the city of Rushville held in the court house assembly room this afternoon,
two Taft delegates were elected, one to the State convention and one to the congressional convention.

William A. Posey was elected State delegate by the narrow margin of three votes and George Krammes was elected district delegate by one vote.
Posey beat William A. Alexander, 64 to 61, and Krammes defeated Earl Winship, the Roosevelt candidate, 62 to 61.

Albert Capp was elected delegate
to the joint senatorial convention
over Earl Priest by a vote of 74 to 46. Scott Buell was chosen delegate to the judicial convention by acclamation. W. E. Harton presided as chairman.

Two Taft men were elected in Posey township this afternoon. Frank Lawrence was the choice of the mass convention for State delegate and Frank Havens was chosen as the delegate to the congressional convention.
Will Gowdy was elected delegate to the joint senatorial convention.

Taft delegates to the State and district conventions were elected in Orange township this afternoon. Lafayette Perkins is the State delegate and Slyde Barlow is the congressional delegate. Charles Simpson was the delegate chosen to the senatorial convention.

Washington township held the largest mass convention ever held this afternoon. Taft delegates were elected by the narrow margin of sixteen to fifteen, but their names could not be earned. The convention lasted until three-thirty.

This morning in Jackson township,
the Roosevelt organization won out by almost two to one. Omer Thompson was elected as a delegate to the State convention on the Roosevelt ticket, over Hal Green, by a vote of twenty-five to fourteen. Verne Norris, the Roosevelt candidate, was chosen delegate to the congressional convention, over Cash Smith, the Taft candidate, by a vote of twenty-four to sixteen.

The Roosevelt contingent was conceded victory in Jackson township.
The trend of affairs there led observers to believe that every farmer
in the township favored the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt. But the vote shows that there are some Taft farmers left.

Sidney Hunt was elected delegate
to the joint senatorial convention
with twenty-eight votes. His oppoent, Isaac Stevens, got nine votes.

J. N. Stevens was elected delegate to the judicial convention by acclamation. Nine delegates and alternates to the county convention were selected. The Republicans met in Kennings school house.

The Taft and Roosevelt forces divided honors in Union township yesterday afternoon, a Taft state delegate and a Roosevelt congressional delegates being chosen. Vincent Gray, who was elected on the Roosevelt ticket to the district convention, was believed before the vote to be the choice of the convention. Ora Smith was elected State delegate as a Taft supporter by a good majority. Delegates to the other three conventions were chosen. They met in Stringtown school house.

CONNERSVILLE IS PLACE

Democrats Will Hold Congressional Convention There May 1.

Connerville was selected as the place for holding the Democratic congressional convention by the county chairmen in session yesterday in Cambridge City. The convention will be held May 1. Sam Trabue and Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall of this city attended the meeting. It is understood only one other city made an effort to land the convention.

DEATH TAKES MRS. OAKLEY SAMPSON

Succumbs Suddenly at Home of Parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hilligoss.

FUNERAL MONDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. Iva Irene Sampson, 26 years old, wife of Oakley Sampson, died suddenly this morning at eight o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. E. Hilligoss in Walker township. Mrs. Sampson was taken ill about two o'clock this morning and never regained consciousness.
Death was due to puerperal eclampsia.

Mr. and Mrs. Sampson were married last September and were preparing to go to housekeeping in Arlington Monday. Mrs. Sampson was born March 14, 1886. Besides her husband and parents she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Ollie Brown, Mrs. Russell Johnson and Mrs. Glennie Miller, all of Walker township.
The funeral services will be held on Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Hilligoss residence, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Fair of Manilla. Burial will take place in the Goddard cemetery.

STILL COUNTING VOTES

Late Today Bottorff-Bosley Primary
Was Not Settled.

Thomas E. Bottorff and William M.
Bosley, both of Milroy and both candidates for the Republican nomination of clerk of the circuit court, pulled off a little primary of their own in Milroy today. They both sought the nomination from the same township, and in view of the fact each was sapping the other's strength, they agreed to leave it to the voters who should be the candidate from Anderson township. The polls were open from ten until three and late today they were still counting votes.

PREPARE PLANS FOR PRICE TRIAL

Attorneys Arrange Defense For Brother of Local Man, to be Tried in Greensburg.

LOCAL LAWYER IS EMPLOYED

Zachariah Price Will Likely be Arraigned Late in Term For Shooting His Farm Hand.

A line of defense for Zachariah
Price who is in Greensburg jail awaiting trial for the murder of Fletcher Cook, probably was agreed upon Thursday at a conference of the attorneys of Greensburg. The defendant is a brother of Will Price of Rushville.

Attorney Maloy, of the law firm of Dixon & Maloy of North Vernon was closeted with Attorney John Kiplinger of Rushville and Messrs. Osborne, Hamilton & Harding of Greensburg.

Following a conference at the office of Osborne, Hamilton & Harding in the morning, the attorneys went to the jail and had a long talk with the defendant, Price, and his brother of this city. A statement was given out that Mr. Osborne's law firm had been engaged by the defense. John Kiplinger of this city was also retained. This will give the defendant seven lawyers, namely, Dixon & Maloy and William Fitzgerald of North Vernon, John Kiplinger of this city and Osborne, Hamilton & Harding of Greensburg.

Mr. Osborne was asked as to the line of defense the attorneys for Price would pursue. He said he did not know. He said that the attorneys had not taken up that feature of the case. As a matter of fact, other matters were discussed at the morning conference and if anything was said about plans for the trial no definite action was taken. It was believed some definite plan would be discussed in the afternoon conference.

Price was shaved Thursday morning in anticipation of a visit from his wife and family. He appeared in good spirits and seemed not to mind his confinement. Sheriff Patterson is an old acquaintance of his and this fact doubtless modifies the hardship of jail life.

Mrs. Price arrived at the jail about 10 o'clock and remained with her husband for some time. She was accompanied by members of the family.
Price is a farmer and always has been accustomed to an outdoor life.
For that reason his expression was one of yearning as he gazed out of the bars. However, he appeared in a cheerful mood.

Mr. Osborne stated that the trial would come late in the term. It has been docketed for an early hearing, but the defense, it is understood, will ask for time so that the lawyers may familiarize themselves with all of the facts.

FINDS WATCH LOST A YEAR.

While at work about his barn yesterday Mort Templeton of St. Paul saw something that appeared to be the lid of a tin can down in the manger. He investigated and was surprised to find that the can lid was his gold watch which he had lost a year ago last October. The timepiece had dropped out of his pocket while he was working about the barn, but an exhaustive search had failed to disclose it.

tendons in the back of the hand were severed.

AN OLD WOUND CAUSES DEATH

William J. Noble, Age 72, Native of Rush County, Expires at Home in Connersville.

BORN AND REARED IN RUSH

Funeral Services Will be at Residence
Sunday Afternoon and Burial
in Fairview Church.

William J. Noble, long time citizen and well known auctioneer, was summoned by death at his home, on South Central avenue Friday, says the Con-nersville News. When a young man, Mr. Noble, by accident, struck one of his feet with an ax. Some years ago this old wound, apparently long healed became troublesome and developed an abscess. To this sore his last illness was probably due. He had been an invalid for fully two years and last Monday morning he became suddenly worse. Since then there had been small hope of his recovery.

The deceased was born in Rush county, not far from Fairview, and was seventy two years old. His boy-hood and early manhood were spent in the county of his birth. On June first, 1859, he was joined in marriage with Miss Mary Pogue, a relative of the pioneer Indianapolis family, after whom Pogue's Run was named. Thirty years ago they moved to Connersville and have lived here ever since.
Three daughters and a son were born to them, and one of the daughters passed away long years ago. Two,
Mrs. Chester Smith and Mrs. T. A.
Leahigh, survive, and are living here.
The son, M. E. Noble, resides in Rush county.

Mr. Noble was widely known in this and neighboring counties as an auctioneer. His powerful, yet pleasant voice, his wonderful memory for names and faces and his excellent judgment as to values all fitted him peculiarly for his avocation, and for many years he was known as the best sale crier anywhere in this vicinity.
Some years ago increasing bodily ailments compelled him to cease this occupation, and he had since lived in quiet retirement. His widow survives, as do a number of grandchildren. For fifty years Mr. Noble had been a member of the Christian church, and he was also a devoted member of the order of Odd Fellows.

There will be funeral services at the house, on South Central avenue,
at three o'clock Sunday afternoon.
Monday morning the cortege will proceed to the Fairview church. There, at eleven o'clock, additional services will be held and interment will be made in the cemetery which is near the church.

BOYS SNOWBALL A HORSE

It Runs Away and Pitches Occupants
Out.

Lee Retherford and John R. Bitner
were driving down town after school, says the Carthage Citizen, and as they crossed Walnut street at its intersection with First street the horse frightened at snowballs said to have been thrown by high school boys, and ran to Main street where the buggy was pitched against a telephone pole and overturned. The boys were thrown out and the Retherford boy was dragged a few feet, but neither was seriously injured. The horse ran some distance and was caught by H.
J. Catt. The bed of the buggy and shafts were broken and could not be used until repaired.

JAMES KIRKWOOD IS DEAD

Former Resident Succumbs at Home in Tippecanoe.

Word has been received here of the death of James Kirkwood, which occurred last night at his home in Tippecanoe, Ind. Mr. Kirkwood was 54 years old and was born and reared in Union township, near Griffins. His two brothers, Byron and Elwood Kirkwood of Griffins have gone to Tippecanoe to attend the funeral
which will be held Monday.

CORONER'S PROBE IS NOT FINISHED

Likely no More Evidence Will be Taken in Harris Investigation
Until Next Week.

PLANNED TO FINISH FRIDAY

Before leaving for his home in Arlington last night Coroner A. G.
Shauck stated that the inquest held on account of the death of Mrs. L. B.
Harris, who was burned in the fire
that destroyed her home at Ashland Farm Tuesday afternoon, was not finished yesterday afternoon as it was expected it would be. The officers expected to conclude the probe yesterday afternoon. It was said this afternoon that it was likely no more testimony would be taken before next week.

James Alexander, the enarest neighbor to Ashland Farm, who was one of the first men to go to the house
after the fire was discovered, says that he did not hear any screams on the morning of the day the house burned. It was stated the day of the fire that he recalled that he heard shrieks but now he denies that.

CONNERSVILLE IS AGAIN THE WINNER

Defeats Locals in Final Game of Season by Score of 34 to 8.

FIRST HALF ENDS 14 TO 4

The local high school basket ball team was again defeated last night by Connersville, the score being 34 to 8. Rushville played a better game than a week ago on their own floor
and used the short pass very effectively but could not locate the basket.
Time and again they would pass the ball down the floor only to miss an easy basket. Connersville soon solved
the short pass and were easy winners.
The first half ended 14 to 4. Castle-man played a star game for Connersville in the first half but could do nothing in the last because of the close guarding of Cameron. Hinkle, Cameron and Roan played a good game for Rushville. The team lined up as follows: Rushville, Hinkle and McDonald, forwards; Cameron, center; Roan and Griffin, guards. Con-nersville, Myers and Caldwell, forwards; Castleman, center; Marcini and Hinchman guards. Bridge and Smelser were the officials.

The Roosevelt contingent was whipped in the Rushville Republican convention in the court house assembly room last night. The Taft delegates to the State and congressional conventions were elected by good safe majorities. The vote for State delegate was almost three to one in favor of the Taft delegates. The contest for joint senatorial delegate was more closely drawn. The two judicial delegates were elected by acclamation.

The most surprising thing about the mass convention last night was the interest taken in it. The crowd was larger than has ever attended a city mass convention to select convention delegates. The belief was expressed last night that more votes were cast than if a primary had been held.

There were four hundred and eighty-nine votes cast for the State delegates. This was the largest number cast in the election. The next highest vote cast was for congressional delegate. The total number of votes cast for the two opposition candidates receiving the highest number of votes was four hundred and thirty-two.

The interest in the mass convention
was a revelation to the Republicans of the city. The court house assembly room would not near hold the crowd, and voters thronged the corridors downstairs. Tellers found it impossible to pass among the men and the voters had to pass in front of the desk at the front of the room and deposit their ballots.

After the delegates to the congressional, State, judicial and joint senatorial conventions had been elected, the voters repaired according to wards to their various meeting places and selected sixty-five delegates to the county nominating convention.
Each voter cast a vote for himself, and every other name drawn out of the hat was a delegate, and the intervening ones were alternates.

After the officers of the mass convention were elected, George Looney asked to introduce a resolution. The question was put to the convention, and it appeared from the shouts of
"Yes" that it was the desire of the convention that he read them. The resolutions provided that the convention endorse county local option.

Dr. Frank H. Green promptly moved that the resolutions be laid on the

MORE VIRGINIA BLOOD SHED

Old Floyd Allen Is Dying of Wounds Received in Courthouse Fray, One of His Sons Was Mortally Wounded by Detectives at the Same Time His Wife Was Slain in Their Home, and Another Victim of Fray Is Dead.

Hillsville, Va., March 16.—Heavily guarded in the jail here are two of the ringleaders of the "Allen gang," which Thursday slew the judge, prosecutor and sheriff of Carroll county and seriously wounded the clerk of the court and two jurors and a court attendant. They are Floyd Allen and his brother, Sidney Allen. The former's life is slowly ebbing away as the result of the wounds received in Thursday's fray and from a slashed throat, self-inflicted with a penknife, while Sidney is seriously wounded as the result of a battle with detectives. Detectives went to the hotel room where Victor Allen was guarding his father, Floyd Allen, and both were placed under arrest without any semblance of a fight. Immediately upon his arrest Floyd Allen drew a penknife and slashed his throat, but officers prevented the carrying out of his intentions.

Thirty picked detectives then struck the trail of Sidney Allen and his wife, who were located at their home in the mountains, several miles from Hillsville. When the detectives arrived at the clearing surrounding the house Allen and his wife opened fire upon the officers, who retreated behind nearby trees. The fire was returned with accuracy, every window and door in the house being shattered, the detectives shooting and killing Mrs. Allen instantly, while Sidney Allen was so seriously wounded that he surrendered and the officers brought him to the county jail here.

A surprise was the announcement of the death of Miss Nancy Elizabeth Ayres, a nineteen-year-old girl, who was in the courtroom Thursday as a witness. No one in Hillsville knew she had been wounded until her death was announced. When she left town for her home she did not know she had been shot, but complained of bruises which she thought she had received in the mad rush from the courtroom. Without a doubt Miss Ayres was shot accidentally.

The hardware store of J. W. Creed, in Mount Airy, N. C., just across the county and state line, was entered Thursday night and all his stock of rifles, pistols and ammunition stolen. This work is presumed to have been done by members of the Allen gang or their sympathizers, and it indicates that the remainder of the gang mean to fight to the last ditch before submitting to the mandates of the law. Attorney General Williams, who is here to assist in restoring order, advised Governor Mann that the convening of the court with Judge Staples of Roanoke on the bench had reassured the terror-stricken people.

There has been a heavy downpour of rain which makes the mountain section almost impassable. Hence the work of trailing the other assassins and those implicated in the murder of the judiciary will be somewhat impeded. That the Allen gang and their friends are not leaving anything undone to prevent capture is shown by the crippling of the telephone and telegraph systems. The insulators were broken by bullets from rifles and pistols, and there is only one telephone wire working out of Hillsville.

Juror Fowler, one of the wounded, is critically ill and his death is expected. Juror Woollall was only slightly wounded, while the wound received by Clerk Dexter Goad is only in the flesh of the neck and his injuries are no longer regarded as serious.

In a crude cell in the little Carroll county jail Floyd Allen, with his head resting upon the arm of his son Victor, who guarded him after his retreat to the hotel, is slowly dying.

"Old Floyd Allen ain't never been sent to no prison yet," declared the would-be suicide and murderer, as the surgeon dressed the wound in his throat, "and there ain't no jedge or sheriff what's a-goin' to send him thar now. The boys fit like hell, and I hope they'll all get away. One o' them houns got me, but I'll never go to no prison. The Allens is all fighters. I reckon as how I've been purty free with my gun, and when I gits away I'll be free with it again. The boys is a-comin' back for me. But if they don't come I'll never go to no prison alive."

They Must Stay in Jail.

Washington, Ind., March 16.—Judge J. W. Ogden, in the circuit court, overruled the motion for bail filed by John T. Healy and son, Harry Healy, who were indicted by the grand jury this term for first degree murder. They now will be compelled to remain in jail until their case is disposed of. They are charged with the murder of Robert Walker, marshal of the town of Montgomery, who was shot while in the "dry beer" establishment of the defendants, Feb. 26, and died the following day.

BRITISH VISITOR
MUCH IMPRESSEDCountess of Warwick Admired
White House Informality.

Washington, March 16.—Gowned in a brown velvet dress and wearing a triangle black straw hat with a trailing smoke-colored plume, Lady Warwick called on the president.

"What do you think of the formalities thrown about the president of the United States?" somebody asked her after the visit.

The countess's eyes opened wide. "Why, I fail to see any," she said. Then realizing that the question was asked jokingly, she laughed.

"I think it is beautiful," she said, "beautiful and wonderful."

"This,"—with a sweep of her hand she indicated the group of reporters who had stopped her in the ante-room—"never could happen in England."

"But I think it is beautiful and democratic," she went on. "Why, I suppose all America can come in freely through these doors and meet the president. Is that true? You see I am a learner, and wish to ask all the questions."

Indiana's Birth Rate.

Indianapolis, March 16.—Figures compiled by the state board of health for February show there were 4,053 births in the state during the month. Of these, 2,121 were boys. The state rate for the month was 18.7, with Daviess county returning the highest rate, or 35.4. Parke county, with a rate of 5.1, had the lowest.

New Novel by Nicholson Is a Romance of Hoosierdom

Meredith Nicholson's latest novel, "A Hoosier Chronicle," is a story of that American state which, after Virginia, is the one most written of in the newspapers and everywhere talked about. In this book Mr. Nicholson endeavors to do for the Indiana of the present day what Cable did for Louisiana, and what Miss Mary Johnston and Thomas Nelson Page have done for Virginia. The social and political life are thrown on the screen, and the people are those to be found walking the streets today in the small towns and in the capital. The lines of interests are not local, but those that are everywhere holding the attention of the American people. Women have a much larger part in this story than in the average novel of its type. There is a plot in the story, not so complicated as to weary the reader, but running throughout the growing in importance. The stage is a large one, and the characters are so built up and vitalized that the reader has a sense of knowing real people.

Mr. Nicholson has put not only his best workmanship into this story, but a thousand and one bits of lore accumulated in the course of his life in his native state. "A Hoosier Chronicle," which is by far the best work of Meredith Nicholson, conveys the idea of an entirely different Indian from the notion of the people of the Hoosier Commonwealth still extant in some quarters. The word was given its widest advertisement in fiction by Edward Eggleston's stories, and James Whitcomb Riley's poems dealt with a later Hoosier, quite different from the crude and illiterate characters described by Eggleston. Mr. Nicholson has written in his new novel of the people of his state in the past decade, and brings them practically up to date. He has employed a broad canvas and introduced many types, including new women and old. Those who recall with pleasure the swift movement of the author's "House of a Thousand Candles" and "Port of Missing Men," his earlier story "The Main Chance," which introduced him as a writer of fiction, will find that he has effected an unusual "blend" of romance and realism in the new tale. Much of the incident occurs in Indianapolis, and he has not scrupled to use the names of streets or in other ways to give verisimilitude to the picture of what he is fond of calling "my town." One of his characters lives in Delaware Street, "only a little way" he says, "from my own house in that thoroughfare." This is in keeping with his idea that a novelist should look out of his window and write. It has been his aim to give a truthful impression of his city and state as he sees it socially and politically. The book represents the thought of many years and the actual labor of two years. During the writing he has, as he puts it, been on excellent terms with his waste-paper basket, and he has constantly revised and rejected. Many novels of Indiana life have been written, but this, it is believed, will stand as the most serious scrutiny of the later life of the Middle West yet offered.

In every sense of the word "A Hoosier Chronicle" is a big book, a notable addition to those few novels of locality which occupy a permanent place in American literature.

The story is a tale of Indiana life covering a period of a decade and a half from the middle 90's down to the present time. The plot, too interesting to be summarized in a paragraph, involves a large number of typical Indiana characters, all done with the vividness and fullness of life itself. The charming vigorous girl who is the heroine; the Yale man who passes from newspaper work to the law and engages in politics in the Hoosier capital; the old lady who makes a success of a stock-farm; a new order of Boss who wields great political power through his personal charm; a brewer-politician's son who is a dreamer and idealist; a spoiled young woman who refuses to be educated; and an amusing office girl—all are involved in a situation combining intensely dramatic personal relations with significant attitudes towards public affairs. Specially notable is its convincing picture of the increasing part played in public affairs by the best type of American womanhood. Few men have ever been so well qualified to present the life and ideals of a state as Mr. Nicholson. Certainly none has ever accomplished the task more brilliantly than has been done in this book. It is a picture of American life in the mass done on a big canvas and from ripe knowledge, made as charming as it is interesting by the author's admirable literary manner and constant humor.

This book is a Hoosier production throughout, the illustrations being from the hand of Mr. F. C. Yohn, who is, like the author, a native Indian, though this is the first Indiana novel he has ever illustrated. The book is published by Houghton Mifflin Co.

C. A. Glossner, 24 Ontario St., Rochester, N. Y., has recovered from a long and severe attack of kidney trouble, his cure being due to Foley Kidney Pills. My kidneys became stronger, dizzy spells left me and I was no longer annoyed at night. I feel 100 per cent. better since using Foley Kidney Pills." F. B. Johnson & Co.

Wealthy Lad Drives Big Racing Motors

Spencer E. Wishart, of Port Chester, New York, a wealthy young sportsman who owns and drives racing cars. Wishart has entered his ninety-horsepower Mercedes in the 500-mile International Sweepstakes race to be run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway next Memorial Day, May 30. He will be a team mate of Ralph DePalma, who drives another ninety-horsepower Mercedes owned by E. J. Schroeder, of New York. Wishart finished fourth in the last 500-mile race at the Speedway, driving the same car.

THIRTY CARS TO START

BIGGEST RACING MOTORS BEING BUILT FOR INDIANAPOLIS.

National Cars Entered Will Have Drivers from West to Compete with Factory Pilots in 500-Mile Race.

When thirty of the world's speediest motor-racing juggernauts line up at the tape next Memorial Day to compete in the world's greatest race over the greatest speed course in the world—the Indianapolis Motor Speedway—two of these fire-breathing space eaters will be blue National flyers, entered by the National Motor Vehicle Company, of Indianapolis.

Racing pilots that have stood the crucial test in track, road and hill-climb events will alternately sit behind the wheels of the throbbing monsters and pit themselves against probably the greatest field that ever faced a starter, that they may bring home another victory to the camp of the famous National in the 500-mile International Sweepstakes and incidentally win a generous slice of the $50,000 offered by the Speedway as a reward for almost seven hours of nerve-racking driving.

Charley Merz, the National driver, who first became prominent when he set a twenty-four-mile record in 1905 that stood for years, will come out of the Golden West to vie with Herr and Wilcox.

"Handsome Howdy" Wilcox, who has been turning fast laps and miles at the track this winter while other racing pilots were hibernating, and Don Herr, winner of the Illinois trophy race at Elgin, will represent the East in the National camp.

Not to be forgotten in the enumeration of these speed gladiators is "Happy Johnny" Aitken, the former pilot, who will be the team manager and on whom half the winning of the race will depend, for it is pit work that gives the victor his laurels. This will be Aitken's first season behind the pit wall, for he has retired—never to come back—and is now assistant to W. G. Wall, the National engineer.

Nos. 8 and 9 have been allotted the National cars. Just what two drivers will pilot each particular car has not been decided. The National company will start a special car, fifty-horsepower motor 5x7½ inches. The other will be a National "40" with regular motor, 4½x6 inches.

These four drivers will relieve one another at the wheels of their particular cars. Wilcox and Herr are now in the employ of the National company at the factory. Merz, formerly a factory employee, is connected with the National Motor Car Company of Los Angeles as mechanical expert.

Just when these drivers will gather at the famous paved track for practice has not been decided at this distant date, but Wilcox has kept the knowledge of the Speedway fresh in mind during the frigid winter by frequent spins on the course.

Merz has driven National cars for years. He began his speed career in 1905. Since then every year has witnessed his victories. Last year he won the Oakland-Panama-Pacific road race for Class C 600 and under; was second in the Illinois trophy race at Elgin, without a stop; won the Los Angeles motordrome ten-mile, Class E under 600, and at the same place the twenty-five-mile Class E 600 and under event, and was placed in many other contests, both on track, road and beach.

CELEBRATION OF OUR CENTENNIAL

Indiana In Line for Suitable Exposition In 1916.

NOW TALKING OVER THE PLANS

Civic Improvement Commission of the Indianapolis Commercial Club Submits a Proposition Looking to a Proper Observance of the Hundredth Anniversary of Indiana's Admission to Statehood.

Indianapolis, March 16.—The Commercial club's civic improvement commission is discussing plans for an elaborate celebration of the centennial of Indiana statehood, and it is probable that in April a conference of the presidents of the state boards and state societies will be called to form a preliminary organization to the end of holding an exposition in 1916, which may continue for two or three months. The subject was brought before the commission by Dr. Frank B. Wynn, chairman, and was discussed by a number of enthusiastic speakers.

It is not the purpose of the commission to have the Commercial club take the initiative in the organization of the celebration, but to join with the Indiana state boards of agriculture, education, charities and others by giving them such help as they may desire from Indianapolis.

The state board of agriculture has long had in mind such a celebration to display the farming and live stock resources of the state, and, because of the acreage available, also to make it a great show of manufacturing resources. But the plans as contemplated by the civic commission go much further than this. Dr. Wynn, State Librarian D. C. Brown and others spoke in favor of making the state's educational resources one of the dominating notes of the exposition and said that the fine arts and other forms of Hoosier activity should have due prominence. Mr. Brown spoke of the proposed state educational building, which the coming legislature will be asked to erect, and said that it would afford a place for spreading a very extensive exhibition of the state's educational work. A portion of the building might be utilized for fine arts displays, he said.

ENDED IN DEATH

Teamsters Have a Fatal Fight Over a Garbage Can.

Anderson, Ind., March 16.—A fight over a can of garbage has resulted in the death of Theodore Eckel, aged thirty-eight, and a charge of murder being filed against Guy Harmon, aged nineteen. Eckel died without regaining consciousness after being hit on the forehead with a shovel by Harmon in an alley at the rear of the Grand hotel.

There were no witnesses to the tragedy and Harmon's story is the only information the police have concerning the fatal fight. Harmon and Eckel were drivers of garbage wagons and each claimed the right to collect garbage from the Grand hotel. A fight followed.

Indiana Railroads Apparently Expecting Coal Mine Strike.

Indianapolis, March 16.—The expected strike of union coal miners on April 1 will not catch the larger Indianapolis industries unprepared, as for the last two or three months the heavy users of coal have been making arrangements to meet such a contingency as a suspension of coal production, and have been storing coal. It is estimated in railway circles here and also among some of the industries, that about a two-month supply of coal is already in the possession of most of the bigger plants and the coal companies in Indianapolis. The railroads are also prepared.

CORN SPECIAL

Lafayette, Ind., March 16.—Arrangements have been completed for the holding of corn improvement lectures along the line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in northern Indiana April 2 and 3. The road has consented to furnish the Purdue agricultural extension department with a special lecture train. This will give the farmers along the B. & O. an opportunity to hear the best-known experts of the Purdue soils and crops department tell "how to grow more and better corn" in Indiana.

Knox's First Paying Oil Well. Hazleton, Ind., March 16.—An oil well expected to produce fifty barrels a day has been brought in on the Perry Cunningham farm, eight miles west of here. It is the first profitable well drilled in Knox county.

His Frank Cost Him Dear. Anderson, Ind., March 16.—For sounding a false fire alarm as a prank on the fire department, Orval Denning, aged twenty, of Muncie, has been committed to jail in this city to lay out fines aggregating $130.

In Memory of Jesse E. Scott.

Jesse E. Scott, son of James and Mary I. Scott, was born near Raleigh, Indiana on October 16th, 1868, died at his home near Sexton, Indiana, on March 7th, 1912, his age upon this date being 43 years, 4 months and 21 days.

Jesse grew to manhood at the home of his birth, when on March 30th, 1892, he was married to Miss Mary E. Richardson. To this marriage was born one child, a daughter. Some three years after this marriage, on June 13th, 1895, the wife of this marriage departed for her Eternal Home.

In the year 1907, on January 9th, Jesse E. Scott was married to Miss Mary Nipp, daughter of James and Melissa Nipp of New Castle, Indiana. To this union was born two sons, Jesse Robert, and John Edward Scott. Mamie, the wife of this second union, with her little sons, and Miss Ethel Scott, daughter of the first marriage, are left to always miss and mourn for a kind and loving father and husband.

When Jesse E. Scott was but a small boy he lost his mother by death. Of his sisters and brothers, three had preceded him to the land of Rest, one sister and two brothers. Some seven years ago, his father, James Scott, too passed from life to eternity. These being gone from his parental home, he leaves behind him, three brothers and one full sister and one half sister, namely:

John P. Scott, and Joseph Scott, and Mrs. Sarah Rider, who yet live upon the home lands, Amos E. Scott, of Edmonds, North Dakota, and Pearl Scott Dillman, a half-sister, who lives at Ross Common, Mich.

Besides these of his kindred, Jesse, left many warm friends among neighbors and acquaintances. He was one who could, because of a genial, kindly nature not only make friends but keep them.

Of his character it is known that he was well respected for his manly integrity, his honesty of purpose. His good will to all people, whether well known to him or not. We will miss Jesse, and ever in company with his beloved, remember him. When the who has striven to be a friend of man dies he is never forgotten until all those who have known him too have followed him into that other life. Jesse will not be forgotten.

Some years ago Jesse joined the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at Lewisville, Indiana. He died a brother in good standing in his Lodge.

A few years ago he was stricken with pneumonia, and though he rallied to again face life there was ever an insidious foe lying latent in his system to again and again bring sickness and weakness upon him.

Bravely he took up hard work, made his life plans, buoyed up by the hope that some day he would conquer all of his bodily weakness. And even to the very last he still kept up courage, and hoped against hope that life yet held many days in which he might live and do battle for the wife and loved babes dependent upon him. A few days before he died, he said to her whom he has left sad hearted: "If I can get over this last weakness I may yet get well, but if not, and it is the Lord's will that I must go, I am ready."

The mystery of life and death we cannot solve, neither can we comprehend. The road of life we travel upon carries more of sorrow and darkness than of joy and light. How few seem the steps we take upon this winding road. How short the distance from the lullaby at the cradle to the low and quiet wayside inn called the grave where we say good night and then lay us down to sleep.

And yet, above the grave there floats an angel, white and mystical, but with uplifted hand pointing, ever pointing into the Great Beyond, and whispering sweet and low, "We meet again. O, Beloved, We meet again." The mold new turned is heaped upon the green.

The farewell flowers lie in drifts of snow. The purple night draws curtains o'er the scene—

And now you know. Unraveled now the tangled skein of life.

You've gone, gone far far, away into life's afterglow. How dead and far must sound all earthly strife—

Now that you know. The tortuous way you sped, not knowing why, The love that into blossom will not grow, You can remember there—without a sigh—

For now you know. I would not have you back to walk again. Life's wounding paths with stumbling feet and slow. I am content to keep my watch with pain—

Because you know.

What it Means.

The result of the mass convention votes in the townships and in the city of Rushville indicate that the supporters of Theodore Roosevelt have been doing all the talking and that the Taft adherents have been quietly working. There have been tales of the practically unanimous support of the former president among the farmers of the county, which are shown to be mere prattle, by the result of the vote. Roosevelt candidates won in the localities where they were conceded the victory before the vote. Elsewhere the Taft vote was surprising in most instances. In Rushville the followers of the president expected to elect delegates to both the State and district conventions, but they hardly expected there would be such majorities.

The Roosevelt contingent among the farmers has been shouting about the "flocking" of the farmers to the ex-president's standard. But it develops that they "flocked" not quite like the sheep flock about their leader. Instead there are any number of farmers in Rush county—a majority of them it seems—who have been thinking seriously of the issues involved, and decided they can not afford to repudiate the excellent administration of President Taft.

Canadian reciprocity, which has been cited as the reason for farmers turning from Taft, is a dead issue. Whether harmful or good, the farmers are not to feel its effects—effects which they believe would be baleful. On the other hand it has been shown that Theodore Roosevelt espoused Canadian reciprocity most vociferously, and would have acted as Mr. Taft did, had he been president.

Housecleaning.

Looking the matter squarely in the face Adam was the only happy man since the expulsion from Eden. Eve never cleaned house. But it must have been her oldest daughter who first started this feminine device for wearying herself and worrying her husband. The masculine protest is as atavistic "as they make 'em." Just as the Cave Man, good, honest old soul and the earliest sample of the domestic man, was nicely settled in a fine dry, airy cave, "with southern exposure," his wife would drive him out to his ancestral lodging in the limbs while she moved the bone heap from the east wall to the south west one and make funny curlycues in the sand. Thus originated the expression "taking to the woods."

And in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, there's an ancient manuscript lately done into modern English, which records a futile appeal Alfred the Great made to his wife not to replace the nice clean winter rushes on the floors of his royal castle with new ones in the spring.

The annual, the semi-annual and in the most virulent attacks, the lunar cases of house cleaning, would be shorn of some of their tyranny and horror if women would content herself with merely cleaning. That is the way a man would do, and his method is superior. He would take up an article and replace it. He would find the best place for the piano, the davenport, the chairs, the pictures on the wall, and there they'd stay.

But the minute a woman has torn an article of furniture from its sacred resting-place she grows flighty and irreverent. She must play "kitchen furniture change" all over the house. In her heart of hearts, she knows that the original place is the best and the only one that she is "tired of seeing everything always the same" and thinks she will "try" new effects.

This thing is going on to such an extent that the wise man is building up as much of his furniture as possible, and Edison, who has already designed a cement house that can be cast in a block, is now working away on a set of plans for fireproof, indestructible and non-movable cement furniture.

The indictment recently obtained by the government against a big business enterprise charges that the company bribed employees of competitors and of transportation, telegraph and telephone companies; that it required its agents to libel the machines of competitors; that it sold imitations of competing machines as "knockers," to the injury of competitors whenever possible.

The indictment is for restraint of trade—a business matter. But what of the employees corrupted? What of the business men cheated by worthless imitations? Those competitors have a right to feel ugly, but when employees of transportation, telegraph and telephone companies are transformed into crooks, the whole people are justified in demanding heavy punishment regardless of the disturbance to business. Yet you will hear something about the injury done by "this muck raking business" by the department of justice to the innocent stockholders and you will hear business men who never resort to libel, bribery and imitation "knockers" decry the efforts to regulate business. But again, what of the great force of employees that are corrupted by that kind of business?

The Vevay Reville says it "stands for those who do not always stand for themselves—the Common People." And it does, too. It is most excellent motto and is followed by many very excellent newspapers that stand for those things that are good, that are true, that are beautiful, that are right and all make for the common good. Too frequently people sleep on their rights and allow selfish interests to get the best of them. A good and a true newspaper is ever on guard to sound a note of alarm and put the people on their guard. Once aroused the great mass of the people stand for those things which are right and should prevail. The great mass of the people can not stand too close or back too strong a true and reliable newspaper because they help themselves and their city and country when they do so.

It is pointed out that the textile mills could have saved all this trouble by giving the advance wages in the first place, but then they would have had to go around and beg the editors to put their names in the papers.

The government says the sugar trust violated the tenth commandment, but in the lack of a jail penalty the ten commandments do not seem to command popular respect.

The politicians are in a bad dilemma. They have to keep their heel on the neck of the money trust, but how can the M. T. cough up under such an embarrassing situation?

The people who have to drive much over the country roads nowadays are anxiously asking what progress has been made in draining the Florida Everglades.

This criticism of the court is bound to keep on until some summary means is discovered of convicting the jury.

The trusts are standing in line to see which shall have the privilege of being dissolved next.

Her Reason Why

Rushville, Ind., Feb. 29, '12

C. G. Clark & Sons,
Rushville, Indiana.,
Gentlemen—

I have tried many kinds of flour, and combinations of flours, and for all purposes I find "CLARK'S PURITY" the best I have ever used. It gives cakes a fine grain, makes bread sweet and white, and may be used perfectly for all kinds of pastry. This makes it cheaper in the long run than other grades. Where one must mix spring and winter wheat flours to get results it increases the already high cost of living. QUALITY and ECONOMY lead me to use "CLARK'S PURITY"

Very truly yours,
MRS. C. M. YOCUM.

SOCIETY NEWS

Miss Nellie Winship entertained the Embroidery club at her home in East Fifth street this afternoon.

Mrs. Homer Powell entertained the Social Dozen yesterday afternoon at her home in North Morgan street.

The Phi Delta Kappa fraternity enjoyed an elaborate banquet at the Windsor hotel last night. A toast program was given following the banquet.

Miss Carrie E. Gallimore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gallimore of this county and Clarence E. Gunning, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gunning of Shelby county, were married in the clerk's office this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Winship of near Milroy entertained the members of the Merry-go-Round club at an elegant turkey dinner Thursday. The table decorations were green and white carnations. This will be the last meeting until next fall. The club has enjoyed a number of delightful meetings during the past year. A business meeting was held and officers elected for the ensuing year. The afternoon was spent at the game of rook.

The entertainment given last evening at the home of John Frazee, Jr., in North Main street was a very enjoyable affair and the minstrel show made a decided "hit." The cast included the following: The Misses Jean Bishop, Lucy Posey, Norma Smith, Martha Hogsett and Suanna Sexton, and George Hogsett, Carl Gunning, Ben Humes, Earl Osborn and Weldon Bramm. Following the performance light refreshments were served.

The Raven Club gave another of their enjoyable dances Thursday evening in the Eagles hall, says a Greensburg paper. Forty-five couples were present. Frayley's orchestra of Indianapolis furnished some excellent music. Many out-of-town guests from Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Rushville, Shelbyville and North Vernon helped to make this a more enjoyable affair. Those present were: Misses Helen Monjar, Mayme Hiner, Harriet Vredenberg, Jessie and Bernice Anderson of Rushville; Fay Silvers, Crystal Rosebrough and Fred Chance of Indianapolis; Marie Comstock, Pleasant Greenlee and Kenneth Casady of Shelbyville; Karl Elder of Cincinnati; William Chance, North Vernon and Charles Dunbar of Chicago.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have the usual two reels of pictures tonight. The first is a Kalem western comedy, "The Dude Cowboy." "A Modern Ananias" is an Indian comedy. Miss Richards will sing "Oh! You Circus Day," one of the song hits in "Hanky Panky."

The Palace offers tonight a Solax entitled "When Marian Was Little." It is a freshly amusing little comedy of a young girl, her hair still in curls, who tried to dress up so as to appear much older because her brother was going to bring a chum home from college. She put on her mother's clothes and some of her mother's false hair and painted. The result was ludicrous, but she learned her lesson, had a few tears and then some smiles. Two years later she met the same man at a party and accepts his invitation to dance. The picture ends in an exceedingly pretty scene. The lady who plays the lead is charming in this part and the whole picture is well handled by both cast and producer and is a good number. The other picture is a western story entitled "The White Medicine Man" and is a Bison film of unusual merit.

Fair tonight. Warmer in north portion. Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

You can answer this question which has been asked thousands of times by the American people by seeing the sixty photo views of the great work of raising the wreck, showing the entire history of the maine from the time she entered Havana Harbor, her destruction, and also showing the construction of the big coffer dam built around her, pumping out the water, finding of the bodies of our sailors, many views of the uncovered wreck and all the details of the great engineering feat. These pictures are exciting great interest all over the United States.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

(Fort Wayne News.)

William Dudley Foulke in a signed editorial takes occasion to lambast the gubernatorial candidacy of Geo. Lockwood. But in so doing he falls so far short of his customary cutting style and displays at the same time such unmistakable bad humor that the impression is somewhat created that Mr. Lockwood's strictures in the past year have gotten under his hide. Mr. Foulke should not have signed an article of such petulant puerility, for in after years when he fain would lay it on the office boy he will be unable to do so. It really isn't up to Dudley's best style.

(Marion Chronicle.)

Four years ago President Roosevelt placed in the White House his most intimate and trusted friend William Howard Taft when he underwrote to the American people as the best representation of the Roosevelt politics. If Colonel Roosevelt intended to take further part in public affairs it was his duty to his party and his country to stand with and back of Taft until the Roosevelt guarantees had been made good. Leaving President Taft to face alone the inevitable embarrassments of the succession, and then making a campaign based upon the alleged mistakes of the man he made president is a course Colonel Roosevelt would never have adopted except at the instance of ambitious and misguided friends, anxious once more to bask in the glamor of his greatness.

He did not wish to take her to her own camp, he had a strange instinct of possession in her. In some way he felt he had obtained a right to deal with her as he would, he had saved her life twice, once by chance, the other as the result of deliberate and heroic endeavor, and yet his honor and his manhood obliged him to offer to take her to her own people if he could. Hence the question, the answer to which he waited so eagerly.

"It's down the canon. I am one of Mr. Robert Maitland's party."

The man nodded, he didn't know Robert Maitland from Adam, and he cared nothing about him.

"How far down?" he asked.

"I don't know, how far is it from here to where you—where—where—"

"About a mile," he replied, quickly fully understanding her reason for faltering.

R. G. Collins, Postmaster, Barnegat, N. J., was troubled with a severe lagrippe cough. He says: "I would be completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and before I had taken it all the coughing spells had entirely ceased. It can't be beat." F. B. Johnson & Co.

"Then I think I must have come at least five miles from the camp this morning."

"It will be four miles away, then," said the man.

The girl nodded.

"I couldn't carry you that far," he murmured half to himself; "I question if there is any camp left there anyway. Where was it, down by the water's edge?"

"Yes."

"Every vestige will have been swept away by that, look at it," he pointed over to the lake.

"What must we do?" she asked instantly, depending upon his greater strength, his larger experience, his masculine force.

"I shall have to take you to my camp."

"Is it far?"

"About a mile or a mile and a half from here."

"I can't walk that far."

"No, I suppose not. You wouldn't be willing to stay here while I went down and hunted for your camp?"

The girl clutched at him.

"I couldn't be left here for a moment alone," she said in sudden fever of alarm. "I never was afraid before, but now—"

"All right," he said, gently patting her as he would a child. "We'll go up to my camp and then I will try to find your people and—"

"But I tell you I can't walk."

"You don't have to walk," said the man.

He did not make any apology for his next action, he just stooped down and, disregarding her faint protests and objections, picked her up in his arms. She was by no means a light burden, and he did not run away with her as the heroes of romances do. But he was a man far beyond the average in strength, and with a stout heart and a resolute courage that had always carried him successfully through whatever he attempted, and he had need of all his qualities, physical and mental, before he finished that awful journey.

The woman struggled a little at first, then finally resigned herself to the situation; indeed, she thought swiftly, there was nothing else to do, she had no choice, she could not have been left alone there in the rocks in that rain, she could not walk. He was doing the only thing possible. The compulsion of the inevitable was upon them both.

They went slowly, the man often stopped for rest, at which times he would seat her tenderly upon some prostrate tree, or some rounded boulder, until he was ready to resume his task. He did not bother her with explanation, discussion or other conversation, for which she was most thankful. Once or twice during the slow progress she tried to walk, but the slightest pressure on her wounded foot nearly caused her to faint. He made no complaint about his burden and she found it, after all, pleasant to be upheld by such powerful arms; she was so sick, so tired, so worn out, and there was such assurance of strength and safety in his firm hold of her.

By and by, in the last stage of their journey, her head dropped on his shoulder and she actually fell into an uneasy troubled sleep. He did not know whether she slumbered or whether she had fainted again. He did not dare to stop to find out, his strength was almost spent; in this last effort the strain upon his muscles was almost as great as it had been in the whirlpool. For the second time that day the sweat stood out on his forehead, his legs trembled under him. How he made the last five hundred feet up the steep wall to a certain broad shelf perhaps an acre in extent where he had built his hut among the mountains, he never knew; but the last remnant of his force was spent when he finally opened the unlatched door with his foot, carried her in the log hut and laid her upon the bed or

He Stared at Her in Great Alarm.

SAFE REMEDY ENDS CATARRH MISERIES

Gives Instant Relief, Cures and Prevents Catarrh and Cold in The Head.

The quickest, best and safest way to cure catarrh or a cold in the head is by using a remedy that will "touch the spot" and do its work quickly without leaving any bad effects. Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after applied you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness are gone, the sense of taste, smell and hearing come back, and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens the inflamed membranes, takes away that stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the nasty discharge which is the cause of the disgusting hawking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Hay fever victims who are made miserable by fits of sneezing, coughing and wheezing get instant and permanent relief by the use of this simple remedy.

Don't suffer another minute. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve you immediately, and a 50 cent bottle will more than likely work a complete cure. All druggists sell it.

Yet the way he put her down was characteristic of the man. That last vestige of strength had served him well. He did not drop her as a less thoughtful and less determined man might have done, he laid her there as gently and as tenderly as if she weighed nothing, and as if he had carried her nowhere. So quiet and easy was his handling of her that she did not wake up at once.

So soon as she was out of his arms, he stood up and stared at her in great alarm, which soon gave way to reassurance. She had not fainted, there was a little tinge of color in her cheek that had rubbed up against his rough hunting coat; she was asleep, her regular breathing told him that. Sleep was of course the very best of medicines for her, and yet she should not be allowed to sleep until she had got rid of her wet clothing and until something had been done for her wounded foot. It was indeed an embarrassing situation.

He surveyed her for a few moments wondering how best to begin. Then realizing the necessity for immediate action, he bent over her and woke her up. Again she stared at him in bewilderment until he spoke.

"This is my house," he said, "we are home."

"Home!" sobbed the girl.

"Under shelter, then," said the man. "You are very tired and very sleepy, but there is something to be done; you must take off those wet clothes at once, you must have something to eat, and I must have a look at that foot, and then you can have your sleep out."

The girl stared at him, his program, if a radical one under the circumstances, was nevertheless a rational one, indeed the only one. How was it to be carried out? The man easily divined her thoughts.

"There is another room in this house, a store room, I cook in there," he said. "I am going in there now to get you something to eat; meanwhile you must undress yourself and go to bed."

He went to a rude set of box-like shelves draped with a curtain, apparently his own handiwork, against the wall, and brought from it a long and somewhat shapeless woolen gown.

"You can wear this to sleep in," he continued. "First of all, though, I am going to have a look at that foot."

He bent down to where her wounded foot lay extended on the bed.

"Wait," said the girl, lifting herself on her arm, and as she did so he lifted his head and answered her direct gaze with his own. "I am a woman, absolutely alone, entirely at your mercy; you are stronger than I, I have no choice but to do what you bid me. And in addition to the natural weakness of my sex I am the more helpless from this foot. What do you intend to do with me? How do you mean to treat me?"

It was a bold, a splendid question, and it evoked the answer it merited.

"As God is my judge," said the man quietly, "just as you ought to be treated, as I would want another to treat my mother, or my sister, or my wife"—she noticed how curiously his lips suddenly tightened at that word—"if I had one. I never harmed a woman in my life," he continued more earnestly, "only one, that is," he corrected himself, and once again she marked that peculiar contraction of the lips. "And I could not help that," he added.

"I trust you," said the girl at last, after gazing at him long and hard as if to search out the secrets of his very soul. "You have saved my life and things dearer will be safe with you. I have to trust you."

"I hope," came the quick comment, "that it is not only for that. I don't want to be trusted upon compulsion."

"You must have fought terribly for my life in the flood," was the answer. "I can remember what it was now, and you carried me over the rocks and the mountains without faltering. Only a man could do what you have done. I trust you anyway."

"Thank you," said the man briefly as he bent over the injured foot again.

The boot laced up the front, the short skirt left all plainly visible. With deft fingers he undid the sodden knot and unlaced it, then stood hesitatingly for a moment.

"I don't like to cut your only pair of shoes," he said as he made a slight motion to draw it off, and then observing the spasm of pain, stopped. "Needs must," he continued, taking out his knife and slitting the leather.

He did it very carefully so as not to ruin the boot beyond repair, and finally succeeded in getting it off without giving her too much pain. And she was not so tired or so miserable as to be unaware of his gentleness. His manner, matter of fact, business like, if he had been a doctor one would have called it professional, distinctly pleased her in this trying and unusual position. Her stocking was stained with blood. The man rose to his feet, took from a rude home-made chair a light Mexican blanket and laid it considerably across the girl.

"Now if you can manage to get off your stocking yourself, I will see what can be done," he said, turning away.

It was the work of a few seconds for her to comply with his request. Hanging the wet stocking carefully over a chair back, he drew back the blanket a little and carefully inspected the poor little foot. He saw at once that it was not an ordinary sprained ankle, but it seemed to him that her foot had been caught between two tossing logs, and had been badly bruised. It was very painful, but would not take so long to heal as a sprain. The little foot, normally so white, was now black and blue and the skin had been roughly torn and broken. He brought a basin of cold water and a towel and washed off the blood, the girl fighting down the pain and successfully stifling any outcry.

PART OF WRECK

Twentieth Century Flyer Resting on the Ice in the Hudson River.

THE LIMIT OF SPEED OR WHEEL PRESSURE

Has Been Reached On Present Day Rails.

New York, March 16.—Three inspectors for the interstate commerce commission began an investigation of the wreck of the Twentieth Century limited from Chicago to New York, five cars of which went over an embankment into the Hudson river five miles north of Poughkeepsie, injuring twenty-six persons.

The broken rail that caused the wreck has demonstrated, according to government inspectors, the truth of their claim made some time ago that the limit of speed or wheel pressure has been reached and probably surpassed on rails of the usual width and shape of head.

AN INNOVATION

Ambitious Frenchman Pushes His Campaign in an Aeroplane.

Paris, March 16.—Vedrine, the aviator, who is making a flying campaign for membership in the chamber of deputies, is the conundrum of French politics. He is disputing the seat at Limoux with Dujardin Beaumetz, the former head of the art department, and had a peculiar experience there. When the aviator began to speak he was greeted with a shower of apples and rotten eggs. This up-to-date politician was equal to the occasion, and, mounting his monoplane, escaped to another village.

Aeroplane Won the Day.

The aeroplane seemed to mesmerize everybody, and Vedrine was followed by a horde of sympathizers, including the lame, blind and children. He was compelled to return to Limoux like a victorious general. He alighted in the market place and was enthusiastically received, while Beaumetz, who had arrived in the meantime, was obliged to flee amid roars of "Go down the line with the 'Mona Lisa.'" The women menaced the former custodian of the Louvre, and only the prompt arrival of the police saved him from injury. Meanwhile Vedrine was seated in his monoplane receiving the embraces of the women, while the men cheered heartily.

BIG JEWEL THEFT

Window Washer Gets $35,000 Worth of Loot in a New York Home.

New York, March 16.—George E. Dadmun of 47 East Fifty-third street, has told the police at headquarters that some $35,000 worth of his wife's and daughter's jewels were missing. Mrs. Dadmun, as she went out on Thursday afternoon, told the butler that the windows needed cleaning and suggested that he get a man to do the job. When she came back she found a man at work on the second floor polishing the windows that opened into her bedroom. The butler told her an hour later that the man had gone. When she opened her jewel case last night she found that the jewelry was missing.

Why Wiley Gave Up.

Washington, March 16.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley has resigned as chief chemist and pure food specialist of the department of agriculture after twenty-nine years of service for the government, because he feels that his hands are tied in the fight for the enforcement of the pure food law.

Caught Under the Cars.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 16.—Frank Ball, Vandalla switchman, was killed under a cut of cars in the yards. He served ten years in the regular army and was a member of the famous Ninth Infantry in the war with Spain. He left a widow and two children.

THE MAINE NOW BUT A MEMORY

Historic Hulk Towed Out to Sea for Burial.

FUNERAL EULOGY AT WHARF

Father Chadwick, Who Was Chaplain of the Maine When She Went Down, Spoke the Final Words in Memory of Fated Vessel and the Brave Souls Who Went Down in Wreck That Sent a Shock Around the World.

Havana, March 16.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the doors of the city hall were opened to the public, and from that hour on great crowds passed reverently by the spot where the bodies of the victims of the Maine were lying in state. A guard of honor stood about the caskets, which were covered with black cloth. On top of the caskets were the American and Cuban flags and a wealth of flowers. The guard of honor had to be changed every five minutes, so anxious were men to serve. Spanish war veterans took their turn, and then came Cuban dignitaries and others. General Bixby and Colonel Black took their turn the same as the humblest private, and this was kept up all afternoon and evening.

The Final Rites.

All the government departments contributed flowers and these, with those supplied by the Spanish war veterans, the members of the house of representatives and individuals will cover the deck of the wreck completely and will float over her when she is sent down to the sea for a final resting place beyond the three-mile limit late this afternoon. The chart shows that the water is 3,600 feet deep where the Maine will be sunk, and as the gulf stream runs three miles an hour, the ship will probably drift half a mile. The wreck was towed out of the harbor at 5 o'clock last evening, and was tied to a wharf across the harbor. It is calculated that if all goes well the ship will sink twenty minutes after the sea gates have been opened. Father Chadwick, who was the chaplain of the Maine when she went down, delivered a funeral eulogy at the wharf this afternoon before the wreck was started for sea.

DEMOCRATS REJOICE

The Free Sugar Bill Passed House by Decisive Majority.

Washington, March 16.—After an exceedingly bitter debate followed by an exhibition of joyous enthusiasm on the part of Democrats, the Democratic free sugar bill was passed by the house of representatives last night by a vote of 198 to 103. Twenty-four Republicans voted for the bill and seven Democrats voted against it. The bill was denounced throughout the entire day by Republicans generally and by Democrats from Louisiana and Colorado, but all efforts to throw obstacles in its way were rendered futile. Republican support of the bill was limited largely to insurgents.

Afoused Police Suspicious.

Logansport, Ind., March 16.—William B. Gillis has been arrested in Chicago on a charge of stealing an express package from a truck in front of the Adams Express company's office in this city. Chicago police found him selling women's purses and other similar articles. They suspected that he had stolen them, and when arrested he confessed that he stole the articles in Logansport.

Bold Thief Captured.

Gary, Ind., March 16.—Another of Gary's mysteries has been cleared up. Walter Jakko, who was arrested by the police, confessed stealing Architect J. E. Hammon's bungalow, which disappeared about a week ago. Jakko was found near Tolleston building a house of timber that appeared to have been used before. The police, becoming suspicious, placed him under arrest.

Doctors Give Grace Up.

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—The condition of Eugene Grace, who claims he was drugged and shot by his wife in furtherance of a plot to get $27,000 life insurance he had just taken out, has changed for the worse, and the surgeons are quoted as saying they do not see how he can recover.

TO MAKE FARMER DEMONSTRATOR

National Soil Fertility League Would Increase Soil Efficiency in Com-paign Just Started.

REDUCE PRODUCTION COST

Startling Facts Are Arrayed by League to Prove Theory of Bumper Crop.

The movement to make the individual farmer his own demonstrator, increasing soil efficiency and reducing cost of production, a work suggesting tremendous possibilities, is taking concrete form as pressed forward by the National Soil Fertility League. A number of startling facts, supported by incontrovertible statistics, are arrayed by the League in contradiction of a popular argument that the farmer will benefit less by raising a bumper crop than a small yield, and equally significant is a review of the records of increasing volume annually of imports of food products that should be produced by American soil.

Distinguished individuals, leading civic and commercial organizations, all of the agricultural colleges and many of the principal news publications of the country, are co-operating in support of the measure prepared by the League and submitted for discussion and suggestion to all these interests, now pending in Congress as the Level Bill. A skilled farmer in every agricultural county in the United States, maintained there by Federal and State support equally divided, brings the farmer in intimate touch with the most advanced scientific and practical data. This is expected, judging from experience in Western Europe and some sections of this country, to greatly increase production, preserve the soil efficiency, reduce the cost of production and lower the general cost of living, at the same time to greatly increase the earnings of the farmer.

According to statistics, the constantly acreage available for farm purposes does not permit maintaining a proportionate balance with the increase of population, the consumers are increasing in number and proportion over the producers, the concentration of population in cities will continue so long as current conditions obtain. Crops are increasing in volume and the returns to the producer advance in proportion, exports are lessening rapidly and the imports to the United States of vegetables alone are enough to set the nation thinking. The demand for food will never lessen, the contrary being the natural law.

WANTS TOM MULL

Connersville News: W. E. Newby, formerly of Rushville, but now assistant manager of the Big Four Printing Ink company of Battle Creek in a semi-business letter to the editor of the News, takes occasion to comment on Sixth district affairs. He regards Thomas K. Mull of Rush county as a strong man to run for congress and holds that if Mr. Mull would consent to make the race there would be no question as to his election by a large majority.

For Women of Good Taste

ONE of the rarest and most beautiful combinations in dress, is the combination of the distinctive with the tasteful.

It is easy enough to be conspicuous, but few women care for that. What they do want is to have just that touch of "difference" in their clothes that takes them out of the common place without putting them into the freakish class.

These are just the sort of garments we show—designed by style masters to whom good taste is as essential as breathing.

Many of the best are Wooltex styles whose beauty and elegance are backed by sterling quality in materials and workmanship. Guarantee for two season's wear.
